(57) Abstract

The invention comprises a document pre-processing system, administrated by a central operator where documents can be accessed, processed and distributed over a telecommunication network. In an administrator network node, a personal computer is connected to a telephone exchange and a storage medium divided into three different parts; a document database for templates, a records database for filing documents and a response database for document interchange. The system has two different access interfaces, one internal for subscribers to the system and one external for subscriber customers. This gives a differentiated access to document data based on subscriber identities.

INTERNATIONAL SEARCH REPORT

1. International application No.

PCT/SE 95/01591

Box I Observations where certain claims were found unsearchable (Continuation of Item 1 of first sheet)

This international search report has not been established in respect of certain claims under Article 17(2)(a) for the following reasons:

1. ☐ Claims Nos.:
because they relate to subject matter not required to be searched by this Authority, namely:

2. ☐ Claims Nos.:
because they relate to parts of the international application that do not comply with the prescribed requirements to such an extent that no meaningful international search can be carried out, specifically:

3. ☐ Claims Nos.:
because they are dependent claims and are not drafted in accordance with the second and third sentences of Rule 6.4(a).

Box II Observations where unity of invention is lacking (Continuation of Item 2 of first sheet)

This International Searching Authority found multiple inventions in this international application, as follows:

1: Claims 1-13: A pre-processing system for documents where the database storing document data is divided into three parts, each having a specific function. Two interfaces are provided, one internal and one external, allowing transactions between database subscribers. This part of the invention solves the problem of managing documents for distribution.

2: Claims 14-23, 24-25: Interfaces and device respectively, the device including interface means for checking subscriber identities. This part of the invention solves the problem of granting access for subscribers to the system.

Since the groups 1 and 2 don't possess common technical contributions over the prior art, there exists a non-unity of the invention.

1. ☒ As all required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant, this international search report covers all searchable claims.

2. ☐ As all searchable claims could be searched without effort justifying an additional fee, this Authority did not invite payment of any additional fee.

3. ☐ As only some of the required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant, this international search report covers only those claims for which fees were paid, specifically claims Nos.:

4. ☐ No required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant. Consequently, this international search report is restricted to the invention first mentioned in the claims; it is covered by claims Nos.:

Remark on Protest

The additional search fees were accompanied by the applicant's protest.

No protest accompanied the payment of additional search fees.
